

INDIGENOUS WOMEN IN PRISON IN CANADA

Indigenous women are overrepresented

4% of Canadian women identify as Indigenous

37% of federal female inmates are Indigenous

There are 628 total women in federal prison. (April 2014)
If Canada's non-Indigenous female population was incarcerated at the same rate there would be 5,619.

The female Indigenous population is growing

5% population increase in non-Indigenous women from 2006-2011.

30% population increase in Indigenous women from 2006-2011.

If the population of Indigenous women continues to grow at the same rate, the number of Indigenous women in federal prison could be staggering by 2036.

Sexual abuse is prevalent

68/100 of all women in the federal prison system are survivors of sexual abuse.

Half of all women who have been physically or sexually abused have not received counselling.

* It is estimated that 8% of sexual assaults are ever reported.

Indigenous offenders are routinely:

- Classified as higher needs (jobs, reintegration and family support)
- Over-represented in segregation and maximum security
- Returned for breaking parole for administrative reasons
- Involved in use of force interventions
- Involved in incidents of self-injury
- Released later in their sentence
- Classified as higher risk
- Denied parole

17X more likely to be involved in self-injury incidents

A sample study of Indigenous offenders showed:

- 96% said substance use was related to their offence
- 85% were under the influence at the time of their offence
- 73% reported a family connection to residential schools
- 18% were residential school survivors
- 71% had spent time in foster care

1/3 were first introduced to Indigenous culture inside prison
